“The Stir Fly”

Stir Fry delivery by drone – coming soon

350 Cabana Rd E., Windsor, On, March 27, 2017– The team at Budokan PanAsian Bistro are excited to announce the completion of our 1st successful stir fry delivery by drone, a.k.a. “STIR FLY”. The test run, out of our South Windsor restaurant, involved an autonomous drone delivering the dish - house favourite, Singapore Street Noodles - to a customer’s house a few blocks away. From calling in the order to arriving on their doorstep, the process took under 20 minutes to complete.

“It’s still early in the process, but we’ve received some enthusiastic feedback from our customer base” says the restaurant’s owner, Rob Chanko. “We are still investigating some regulatory details with Transport Canada regarding commercial drone usage before this becomes a main stream reality. The airspace rules are constantly evolving and are a little ambiguous at this point, but we think it has great potential. The drone had some small glitches with sensors, dodging trees and other potential impediments, but even a pizza delivery kid has to back up or circle the block occasionally to get to the correct address, plus there is no need to tip on a drone delivery!” says Chanko.

Budokan, located in the heart of South Windsor, serves Pan Asian cuisine influenced by many regions of the Far East. Our menu features classic fusion appetizers such as lettuce wraps, spring rolls, grilled chili shrimp or squid, Szechuan eggplant and pork belly in Hoisin sauce. Budokan’s signature product is their authentic Asian stir fries featuring beef, chicken, seafood or vegetable based dishes, served with various options for noodles, sauce and heat. Soon, all available by Stirfly...hopefully !!
